

Significant sections of the Federal Property Management Regulations (FPMR) governing acquisition of furnishings and other supplies:

Section 101-25.105 establishes, by example, those items considered to be for personal convenience and for which Government funds should not be expended and prohibits procurement thereby to satisfy personal desires.

Section 101-25.302 prescribes entitlement criteria for executive office furniture and furnishings for Government employees based primarily on rank or grade.

→ Section 101-26.301-1 requires prior approval by GSA through the Commissioner, Federal Supply Service for procurement from commercial sources of items similar to those available from GSA stock.

→ Section 101-26.401-3 requires prior approval by GSA through the Commissioner, Federal Supply Service for procurement from commercial sources of items similar to those available from Federal Supply Schedule contracts.

Note: If compliance with any particular requirement included in the above reference presents a problem, the matter should be brought to the attention of:

Mr. Robert J. Taylor
Deputy Assistant Commissioner for National Supply Policies and Programs (FF)
Washington, D.C. 20406
Telephone: 557-8675